

ASKS FOR A LIEN

Dr. Shepard Files a Bill of Complaint

AGAINST CARROLL S. HARTMAN

Asking That the Circuit Court Give Him a Lien on Certain Property Prior to Other Claimants.

Yesterday in the circuit court Dr. Charles Shepard filed a bill of complaint against Carroll S. Hartman, John Widdicombs, his assignee, Peter C. Campbell and John McNabb and the Peninsula General Electric company.

The bill of complaint sets forth that in May, 1890, the orator leased to Carroll Hartman the premises occupied by the Shepard block for a sum of ninety-six years, and by that lease Hartman acquired an interest as lessee in the premises, with the appurtenances, which is claimed to be worth $17,000.

The bill also sets forth that on or about May 20 Hartman entered into a contract with the Sterling company of Chicago, whereby the Sterling company, in consideration of the sum of $1,833, agreed to furnish two sixty-two and one-half horse power engines and to erect the same in the buildings. For these boilers Hartman agreed to pay one-half on presentation of sight draft, and the balance sixty days from date of erection. This amount was still unpaid up to the time of Hartman's failure.

The complainant states that in September the orator paid the claim of the Sterling company and it assigned to him all its claims against Hartman. The Sterling company has erected the boilers in the building and that their erection has increased the benefit of Hartman's interest to the amount of $2,900.

Asks for a Lien. It is also stated that there is owing and unpaid to Dr. Shepard from Mr. Hartman the sum of $1,833, and he states that he is entitled to a lien on the boilers and on the entire interest of C. S. Hartman to secure the payment of that sum.

The orator has caused to have examined the records of the register of deeds and has found that Campbell & McNabb and the Peninsula General Electric company have each filed a statement of lien on the premises, and each has begun suit in the circuit court to enforce the liens. He claims that no other person has rights in the property and that no proceedings at law have been had to collect the amount ($1,833) due the orator.

Dr. Shepard also prays that he may be given a lien upon the boilers and upon the entire interest of Hartman, and that Campbell & McNabb and the Peninsula General Electric company shall establish their rights for liens on said premises, and that the sale be declared simultaneously with the orators. He also asks that the court take an account of the interest of Hartman in the premises, and cause distributions of the proceeds of the sale of it to be made in default of such payment of all the interest of C. F. Hartman and John Widdicombs, as assignee, may be sold to satisfy the amount due, and that the purchaser may be let into possession of Hartman's and Widdicombs' interest.

Work of a Vandal.

Monday evening while Mrs. Eaglesfield was at home, No. 22 South Prospect street, sitting in her library reading she heard a tremendous whack against the window. There are three very large windows close together in the room, and at the middle window was a Harrison picture with flags around it, which Mrs. Eaglesfield has had there about a month. Investigation showed some one had thrown together two rotten eggs at the window, with the probable intention of both hitting Harrison's picture and breaking the window. They succeeded in smearing the window to the left of Harrison's picture and would have broken it beyond a doubt if it had not been good American plate glass. Mrs. Eaglesfield has taken some part in the campaign, and supports this is regarded by the kind of men who do such things as only a mild rebuke. The curtains were up at the time and the man must have been sitting there.

Charged With Larceny. Jack Sadler, an old timer, was arrested last night by Detective Gast and Jakeway, charged with having stolen an overcoat from a dummy in front of the Bell Clothing company's store on Canal street. When arrested he was wearing the overcoat.

Minor Court Matters. Mary C. Weaver has commenced suit in chancery in the circuit court against Luther Rank, to remove a cloud from the title to her homestead.

James Morgan, the young man who took the pocketbook from the Buffalo Clothing Store Saturday evening, was before Judge Haggerty yesterday, and his sentence was suspended.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

Difference Between the "I Think" and the "I Feel" Woman.

A famous financier was asked how he spent his evenings. "I lie upon the sofa and think," he answered. His thoughts were of money making, and they were to such purpose that in ten years he had made himself worth as many millions, got in a comparatively honest way, too. It may be said. I have attended meetings of women's clubs frequently and listened to their speeches. When a woman begins a sentence with "I feel that" I know what is coming. I know she will pour out a slosh of unreasoning emotions and prejudices. It is this poor creature—the "I feel" woman—who is the cause of discord and disruption in women's clubs. When, on the contrary, the woman who thinks makes her speech, you hear a clear and logical presentation of what she has to say. She has lain upon her sofa and reasoned the question out to its straight conclusion. She has put aside her prejudices and her little feelings and used her brains. The woman who does that in the club or in business is the dependable one. You know where to find her. She will never desert you. If she sets her head to it she will make a fortune in business or will gain success in literature or art. She will not let her emotions do duty one moment for her brains. The "I feel" woman, on the other hand, is the most dangerous person in the woman's club. She is a more bundle of hysterical emotions playing upon a set of hysterical nerves. She is as irresponsible as a child. Carried now hither, now thither by her foolish feelings, surcharged now with violent affections, now with equally violent dislikes, she is like a weather vane before the wind. It is the "I feel" mother who ruins her children. And one silly "I feel" woman will break up a whole club.

The true club woman is she who thinks more of the good of the club than of her own personal likes and dislikes.

Eleven years ago Belva Lockwood, a member of the bar in good standing in the District of Columbia, was refused admission to the bar of Prince George county, Md., by Judge Magruder, although she had business before its court. She was refused because she was a woman, and Judge Magruder, in declining to allow her appearance, went out of his way to say, "I pray God the time will never come when women are admitted to the bar in Maryland." A few weeks ago Mrs. Lockwood again applied for admission to the bar of Prince George county, in order to take up the same case she was compelled to drop eleven years ago. This time she was admitted by Judge Brooks, who is now on the bench. "Thank you, the sun do move," The Lord did not hear Judge Magruder's prayer.

Is it absolutely necessary to have the largest part of a magazine intended for women given up to clothes?

It is exceedingly gratifying to me to recall the progress women have made in daily journalism in New York city. Half a dozen years ago few of the daily papers employed ladies in any other capacity than that of society or fashion reporters. Mildy Morgan was live stock reporter for The Times and Tribune, securing the place through a whim of Horace Greeley. Through perhaps another whim of the same individual Mrs. Lucia Gilbert Calhoun wrote noble editorials for The Tribune. But outside the realm of society and fashion these were about the only women regularly employed on the daily press. Now the New York Recorder has a daily woman's page edited with signal ability by Mrs. Haryot Holt Calhoun, and The World has a similar page in charge of that brilliant young journalist, Elizabeth Jordan, also assistant editor of The Sunday World. The sole editor of The Sunday Recorder is another well known woman journalist, Mrs. Eliza Putnam Heaton. The editor of the Brooklyn Sunday Eagle is a lady, Miss Celia Kunney. Miss Laura Roake has an editorial place on the Brooklyn Times. These ladies belong to the New York Woman's Press club. There are dozens of other women who now do some of the brightest and most attractive special work on the Sunday editions of the daily papers.

Mrs. J. C. Croly (Jenny June), the pioneer woman journalist of New York, must not be a little pleased to witness the changes that have taken place in regard to the employment of women on the daily press since she began her labors.

Dr. Margaret Cleaves has been unanimously elected secretary of the Electro-therapeutic society, of New York, being the first woman to hold this office.

I have before me a dainty little pamphlet advertising a winter hotel in Florida. To the eloquent description of the advantages to be enjoyed at this hotel is appended the name, "P. A. Borden, proprietor." Now this is not an advertisement of the hotel, and I will not tell you its name, but the interesting point about it is that "P. A. Borden" is a brilliant and highly accomplished young lady, with a turn for financial affairs. Whatever she takes hold of must be done just right. She learned that from her father, who made a financial success of the milk condensing industry.

Among the compositors on the city printing for Boston are women who can set type in Greek, Hebrew and other languages, yet these ladies do not get equal pay with the men compositors on city work.

Berks county, Pa., has a girl mail carrier and stage driver. Miss Kate Levan, sixteen years old, drives the mail stage daily between Princeton and Fleetwood. She can manage a four horse team with as much skill as any man in the county.

I do not mean to say that the individual who can ride in the New York elevated train year after year without becoming permeated through and through with disgust for the average spitting, sprawling male biped is made of sterner stuff than

This is Your Game.

Yesterday being election day Detweiler made a special effort to display in his line. His store front was liberally decorated with all kinds of game. In the delectable array were deer, owl, snipe, partridge, rabbit, prairie chicken, quail, meadow lark, duck, plover, dove, geese, turkeys, squirrel, etc., etc. The display nearly covered the front of the familiar market and hid the windows from view. Inside the fish and oysters had everything their own way. It was a stand-off between the lobsters and the oysters on one side, and the bass and pickerel on the other, but along towards night the big black shark in the window swallowed all the lobsters in sight and swam round the room in search for more. The sea turtle sank "Ta-ra-ra" and started for the seaside with a bunch of celery in each arm, and the codfish sat down on a mackerel and waited for the returns from New York.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Owing to the inclement weather of last week many were unable to visit our Great Special Cloak Sale, though more than half the 9,000 garments advertised were sold. An inventory discloses

4,200 Cloaks

Still to sell of those included in the sale. With the evidence of many requests and inquiries which have flooded our daily mail from people all over the state asking that the sale limit be extended in order to permit those from distant points to attend, we have decided to open the doors again to this unprecedented opportunity, and invite those as not yet served, to visit our cloak rooms, where they will be entitled to the same privileges and prices as in vogue during the past week. This decision by us means a distribution of many thousands of dollars among those who purchase garments during the six days ending Saturday night, Nov. 12, 92. It means that some will wear cloaks for $8, worth $20 and $25, and that all will secure these garments at one-quarter and one-third of their actual value.

The catalogue of styles include the newest and most desirable fashions. The most durable and artistic weaves. Unbroken assortment of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Warm Wraps down to the little ones just old enough to walk.

The frosty weather suggests FURS. As an emphasis to cloak interests, we invite an inspection of our vast and distinguished variety of furs, including all popular kinds and modern styles. The atmosphere of low prices on cloaks has touched the cloak man's pencil with a downward stroke, and bargains are the result. See if it isn't so.

A lively vibration among the importing houses has been going on in New York by our RESIDENT BUYER. He's caught some of the over sanguine importers with too many dress goods. That always pleases him, for he knows they can be moulded to his price, and with the cold cash in his hand, he wields a mighty argument that lays the finest fabrics on our counters at far under the market prices.

Do you want to share in the spoils? Then visit our dress goods department with a little cash this week. We'll show you new and fashionable patterns, and costumes you with prices strangely low and incompatible with the superior fabrics offered. It's hard just now to keep enough underwear for daily use. Consider that! Don't drift upon the whole sale stock furniture the solution. No matter what you may call for, either in single garments or combinations, it can be produced in all weights and weaves, accompanied with a price made that will win your patronage at once.

Bring full in our Glove Department of the real late styles and shades, and you will find much pleasure in a study of Paris fashions here.

If our stock of Fur Trimmings were weak we'd hear of it. We don't. Just the fur trimmings that women want are here in profusion. It's the fur trimmings in the trimming way that you've seen for a decade. A good every line of trimmings is gone along with the fur trimmings of the fur, giving a touch of elegance to the ensemble. No matter what sort of fur or trimming you want, don't forget to bring it here.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM!

WHEN people buy an article from an artificial view and find to late that men betray, their melancholy turns to hate and causes them to shun forever the store of their "deceivers," and this it why we keep on winning the trade of the deceived. Their past patrons are our best friends. Our prices and values draw them to us. Our methods and treatment keep them with us. It matters not what they advertise or what fraud they have to pull trade. We have the grades at a lower figure and guarantee it.
